I have made a Decision! Updated!

I have been thinking today about what direction I want to go in now that the election is over. I have finally made my decision. I will no longer make any more personal attacks on Jim Ireton or Debbie Campbell, I will reserve those for Joey only. I will keep a close eye on their policies and when things are not going as Jim as stated, I will hold his feet to the flames over them, Debbie Campbell as well. I have lived in this City my entire life and if Jim Ireton can make it better, then great, but I am going to start looking closely at what he and Debbie have stated over the past few years and hold them to the promises. Basically I am holding myself to a higher standard of Journalism when it comes to City Politics. Joey is a whole different animal (no pun intended) and I will never relent on him..ever..I may even attack him harder to make him pee on himself more.

For Jim and Debbie and supporters, I offer my apologies for the attacks , but I will be blasting failed policies and promises not kept. For all of us that hate Joe..never fear I have some more stuff ready for our hero.

I will also be allowing opinions that differ from mine, so just keep it clean and logical and they will get posted
